The Brown Ranch Steering Committee

We are so fortunate to have a diverse group of community members willing to volunteer their time and commit to a year of hard work to help the YVHA create a comprehensive plan for the Brown Ranch,

A Community By Locals For Locals.

Meet our Team!

Andrew Beckler is an entrepreneur and an advocate for small business owners, the Outdoor Recreation Coalition and their housing needs for employees and themselves.

Anne Warhover spent her career as an affordable housing advocate and led planning teams for mixed use communities.

Cecilia Escobar is a naturalized citizen, a mother of two, a member of Latinx and a local leader who works with community members who are struggling with housing.

Ed MacArthur is a long time local with extensive experience in development and construction and is chair of the Yampa Valley Bank Board.

Erin Miller was raised in a YVHA property, works with low-income youth and families and is a strong advocate for young residents struggling with our housing crisis.

Gates Gooding was raised in Steamboat Springs and is a housing entrepreneur who is known for thinking outside of the box.

Genevieve Kalmes is a CPA and a partner with THPK, PC, and has two young children. She and her husband Pete successfully navigated the difficult process of building their home all on their own, giving her a unique perspective to the challenges of building in Steamboat while on a tight budget.

Kimball Crangle moved to Steamboat Springs in 2020 with her family and is currently under construction on a 90-unit workforce housing project in town in partnership with the YVHA.

Kristin Brown Wilson is a local Physician, a mother of three and a life-long community volunteer who grew up on the Brown Ranch.

Lina Grant is an amazing single mother of two, an executive assistant and a woman whose life experiences have shaped her passion as an advocate for those who struggle to find safe, stable and affordable housing.

Marsha Daugenbaugh is a life-long resident of Routt County and a leader from our ranching community.

Megan Moore-Kemp is a local leader who, in her work at Yampa Valley Electric Association, advocates for energy solutions which will benefit the community and environment and is deeply committed to attainable housing for families and local workers.

Patrick Phillips recently retired as the Global CEO of the Urban Land Institute, the world's leading multi-disciplinary organization fostering best practices in affordable housing, sustainability, infrastructure and economics.

Patrick Staib, a CMC Professor of Social Sciences, has decades of experience in community organizing around shared resources and qualitative analysis; and lives with his family in a nearby neighborhood.

Roger Ashton is a long time YVHA Board member who brings extensive experience, perspective and context to the process along with a background in affordable housing, marketing and communications.

Sarah Jones is a local sustainability and strategic planning leader as well as the Director of Sustainability and Community Engagement for the Steamboat resort.

Tatum Heath was raised on a small local ranch and is the Executive Director of Horizons, a nonprofit that works with families and communities to expand opportunities for individuals with cognitive disabilities.

Tim Wohlgenant, Executive Director of the Yampa Valley Community Foundation represents local philanthropy and Yampa Valley non-profits and has been a state leader working on land conservation, urban parks and trails development, and the funding and implementation of Colorado's Water Plan.

Vanessa Avitia is middle school student, a local bilingual, bicultural leader and an advocate for youth and their housing needs.

Webster Jones has extensive experience as a water resource engineer in Colorado and is currently Board President of the Colorado Water Resources and Power Development Authority focusing Yampa/White/Green river basin.

We've put together a quick one sentence bio for everyone that highlights a skillset or perspective that we felt would be important for the team. While some of these include a professional skill they are not a professional bio but more of who you are as a community member. Each of you will receive your own. Let us know if you would like any changes! We want you to be comfortable with it since it will be put on the website and/or on other informational outlets.
